JOHN T. BRUSH TRIES TO PARLEY WITH A. G. SPALDING.

But the League's Enjoined President Sava "Unconditional Surrender!"- Fogel Hitches Between Harvard and Yale.

The rival factions in the National League to been decidedly quiet for the past two weeks, but there is evidence that the under-ground wires have been working. From authority that is worthy of belief comes in-formation that John T. Brush, having failed to enlist the services of President Ban John-son and the American League, has been tryson and the Amith A. G. Spalding. Several days ago he sent a despatch in Spanish to Spalding in New Mexico which is supposed to mean this in English:

"It is apparent that you have abandoned us, but if you will come back all will be for-received yesterday by THE SUN, has been so badly mixed that a literal translation of it is impossible. But Spalding, evidently taking it to mean that Brush is weakening, sent this pointed reply:

Answering yours 31st: I am not a Spaniard.

Cannot accept your terms of surrender. Must be unconditional. I will remain at my California headquarters awhile longer and allow you and headquarters additional time to calmly inink the matter over. The siege will not be raised Next Monday at Buffalo there will be a meeting of representatives of the American League, the National Association of Professional Basebali Leagues, and the four clubs allied to Spaiding, the object being to make the playing rules uniform.

Horace Fogel, who still says he is the manager of the New Yorks, arrived in town yesterday for a conference with Freedman. Fogel avers that he has signed several players for the local team and Freedman declares that he is satisfied with his selections. But there is a well-defined rumor afloat that in a few days the New York's thirteenth consecutive manager since Freedman bought the club in 1896 will be signed in the person of Arthur Irwin, who was manager here in 1896 but was forced to resign when Freedman rot in with "Scrappy Bill" Joyce. Irwin was in town yesterday but refused to discuss baseball affairs. It is known, however, that he has received an offer to manage the New Yorks during the coming season. If irwin accepts what will become of Fogel?

While Harvard and Yale are dickering over a new agreement to govern their athletic contests, nobody seems willing to say what the hitch is. But according to common report there are two points at issue which may cause trouble. The Harvard authorities, it is understood, are anxious to learn whether Yale has conclusive proof of Cutta's professionalism when the charges were made before the Harvard-Yale game. If Harvard should discover that the necessary evidence to convict Cutts was in Yale's possession before the game, there would probably be a severing of further relations between these universities. But as a matter of fact, Walter Camp of Yale, when he wrote to Prof. Hollis, chairman of the Harvard Athletic Committee that he had heard that Cutts had received pay as an athletic instructor at Haverford College, did not hold the receipt for pay in return for boxing lessons given by the great Crimson tackle. This receipt, according to a man prominent in Yale athletics, was not secured by the New Haven men until several weeks after the game. Aside from this unpleasantness, it is said that Yale athletic advisers are pressing the suggestion that in future university teams of all kinds shall be limited to undergraduates of the regular four-year college course. In setting forth this proposition, the argument is used that men 28 and 30 years old would be barred from competing, especially in football. Graduates of other colleges who might come to Yale or Harvard would be unable to take part in any branch of athletics at any time. In this way so-called semi-professionalism would be impossible.

The schools of America's large cities, "said a Yale man yearerday, "are lundreds of boys who are preparing for Harvard or Yale. Their fathers have been students at these universities and the little fellows are filled with the true colleges on the hower of a years of age a

When properly conducted there is no harm in glove contests, either by professionals or amateurs; but if the new bill, should it become a law, burnits certain individuals to control the sport here, who ran things high-handedly under the old statute, it might just as well be quashed. The sporting public of this city will not tolerate the men who are responsible for the death of the sport, should they attempt to assume the relax once more.

National Sporting Club Succumbs to Ping-

Pong.

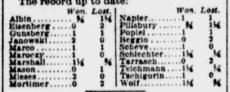

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Feb. 5.—The National Sporting Club, famous in British boxing annals, has fallen prey to the ping-pong mania. Some of the members are so crazed that it has to them, and the billiard rooms are largely forsaken. The other evening a match between two stockbrokers, Mr. Stokes and Eugene Corri, well-known patrons of boxing, excited the members tremendously. The room was crammed with onlookers and £2,000 changed hands on bets. Mr. Corri Sporting Club has now challenged the Beaufort Club, another coterie of sports, to play a ping-pong match.

The annual meeting of the N. C. A. at the Astor House was fraught with much more than appears on the minutes or has been represented in any summarized report of the proceedings. The chief things proposed were left over to the adjourned meeting of April 7. Among these is an entire revision of constitution and by-laws. This was proposed by the track owners on the ground that the conditions are not now the same as when the N.-C. A. was organized. It is expected that something revolutionary will be attempted by the two track owners on the committee of five. They will need only one of the other three to enable them to propose some startling changes. Besides what may be done by this committee, it is likely

New London, Feb. 5.—Tom Broderick of Yonkers and Tim Kearns of Boston, who were to go twenty rounds at 138 pounds in the New London A. C. arena to-night, got into a wrestling match in the seventh round and Broder-ick put Kearns down, falling on him and dislocating his right shoulder. Both had fought roughly and with utter disregard of the rules, Kearns was forging shead and would have won. Referee Stanton Abbott sent the men to their corners and declared the bout "no contest." Boxing Supervisor Donahue called contest. Boxing Supervisor Donahue called upon City Physician Thompson to examine Kearns and on the physician's announcement that Kearns's right shoulder had been dislocated Refereee Abbott gave Kearns the decision on a foul.

The contest was of the longshoreman order throughout. In the second round Broderick put Kearns down with a left swing to the jaw, but the Boston man came back strong and had Broderick dazed at the gong. After this to the unsatisfactory ending Broderick was disposed to hold in the clinches and showed signs of weakness. So far as the bout went Kearns had the better of the argument. In the preliminary Jack Smith of New London put Emil Schultz of Providence down twice in the seventh round and the go was stopped by the referee, Smith getting the decision.

New Yorks Win an Easy Victory From the Brooklyns.

The hockey game played in the St. Nicholas Rink last night between the Hockey Club of New York and the Brooklyn Skating Club was very one-sided. The Hockey Club team won by 10 goals to 0. It scored five goals in each half and could have made its score much larger. Two players were severely injured. In the first half Russell was hit over the heart and knocked insensible. It took exercil printers to review him and he took several minutes to revive him and he insisted on continuing, but changed positions with Newbury, playing cover point instead of forward. He did not play in the second half. M. LaMontagne injured his knee cap and had to quit and his place was taken by Shaw. The game was not a rough one and the accidents appeared to be unavoidable. YACHTSMAN'S FINGER CUT OFF.

LONG BRANCH, Feb. 5 .- A chapter of accidents occurred this afternoon to the yachts of the Shrewsbury Ice Yacht Club at Pleasure Bay. Several hundred enthusiasts witnessed the race for the T. E. Rice loving cup. Nine the race for the T. E. Rice loving cup. Nine yachts entered and a close finish was predicted. Only one of the yachts, Charles Gibbon's Red Rover, finished. It was the Red Rover's maiden race. She did the fifteen mile course in 41 minutes. The Shrewsbury bursted her jib: the Florence A collided with the Ray, badly damaging the latter, and the Sweetheart, owned by W. R. Patten, was position everylent headway when she the Sweetheart, owned by W. R. Patten, was making excellent headway when she went in the air. When she was righted Frank Newman, who occupied the rear runner, caught his left hand under the runner, severing the middle finger. The Sweetheart then withdrew and the Gypsy Girl and Ghost broke down, while the Peg and Eagle were scratched. The cup will be sailed for again on Saturday.

The 24-hour pennant was won by E. W. Price's Shrewsbury, which covered the fifteen mile course in 3s minutes, with Peg second, four minutes behind. Yesterday's blue ribbon pennant race, which was not decided, was awarded this afternoon to Commodore E. W. Reid's Florence A.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 .- Bad weather had New Orleans, Feb. 5.—Bad weather had no effect on the attendance at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. Syncopated Sandy ran away in his preliminary gallop before the last race and was scratched. All bets were declared off and twenty minutes for a new book were ordered. Two of the six favorites managed to get home in front. The mile and an aighth race went to Ida Ledford. managed to get home in front. The mile and an eighth race went to Ida Ledford, equal choice with Henry of Franstamar. Henry of Franstamar met with a lot of hard luck and with clear sailing would have won. "Wise" ones made a killing to-day in the steeplechase by backing W. H. Dixon, but they had a narrow escape, for Dixon just corralled the money by a nose from the even-money favorite. It was one of the most warmly contested steeplechases seen at the Fair Grounds in years. Dixon opened at 10 warmly contested steeplechases seen at the Fair Grounds in years. Dixon opened at 10 to 1 in the ring and remained at that figure until the money started to flow into the ring. Dixon was 2 to 1 or thereabouts at post time. It is supposed that the ring suffered to the extent of $10,000. An almost prohibitive favorite was Swordsman in the first event, with plenty of followers. There was, however, a systematic play on Philma Paxton, and Philma galloped home a winner. She was off badly and it took her almost seven-eighths of a mile to get within striking distance of Swordsman.

Barney Saal from Jim Arthur's string was the winner in the second event, and some intimated that the race was made for him Ed Gardand II. was heavily played and took second money, while Pillardist, a fancted one, was third. Beana, the odds-on favorite, proved to be the best in the fifth race. The closing event was taken by Garter Ban, the second choice. Menace, the heavily played favorite, showed no speed and finished in the ruck. Summaries:
